THE STONES OF SOLONOR'S TEX-PLE .- The marble stones which composed Solomon's Temple were said to be forty cabits lung Supposing a cubit to be eighteen inches, which is the lowest estimate, they would be sixty feet long, eighteen thick, and twelve feet high. And supposing a cu-bit foot of marble tu weigh 2,307 conces, one of these stones weighed 2,752,038 pounds and 12 ounces. If one man was able to raise 200 pounds it required 13,760 men to raise one of these, and also a little boy who could raise 38 pounds 12 onuces. Suppose one man to require a square yard to stand upon, it would require 2 acres 2 rods, 11 perches and 13 yards for them to stand upon while raising it, besides a place for the little boy to stand. What floats must have been necessary to carry them across the sea ti Jopps? What kind of teams, as well as wagone; do you suppose they had to carry these stones from Joppa to Jerusalem, which is about thirty miles, and a mounsinous country? What skill was necessary to square and dress these immense stones, so that when they were brought together they fitted so exactly they had the appearance of being one solid

It has been sounded to the depth of 150 feet, without finding bottom. There are other smaller springs of fresh water, the bottoms of which have never been counded by lead or plummet. Some of these springs are warm, others cold. On one side of this salt field is a volcanie mountain, now burnt out. The shape of the crater is still distinctly to be seen. One side of the mountain is split off, allowing the lava to flow out down the side of the mountain and far out into the plain, where it is yet to be as plainly seen as when the mountain first burst assunder.

Upon this pretended discovery be founded the sect. and gathered its members of Neovet a Post Offices were instructed to inquire of conjugal relations theretofore existing but never recommended polygamy.
That was an afterthought of Brigham

When the people of Illinois killed Jue and his protier Illiam, and drove the Marmons beyond the Mississippi River out upon the Plains, Brigham Young, the Soulor Elder, assumed the command of the expedition. Brigham never assumed to be a propher, but only a sort of Officer Oremwell to protect that people during the minority of Joe's son David, appointed by his father to be his successor as Prophet. He styled himself the President of the Church of the Latter Day Saiete. 14 Hestarted with his party out apon the plains to seek a new bonce, which he called "The Land of Promise". He brought up at last at Salt Lake, During his journey thither, so many of his maie followers described and came back to the States, as to leave in his land at least 1,500 married women without any projectors whatever. To meet that emergency he suggested the idea of spiritual marriages of the few meni with the mady women; so that a tectorate as many women as Brigham thought the individual could take care of. This was called the polygumy of Solomon's time, and has since been justified by him on the authority of the ancient Scriptures. This is, in brief, the preliminary story of Mormonism in Usah.

The Valley of Salt Lake is one of the most delightful spots in the World, Brigham did not fail to perceive it; and be balted there and built a city. He assumed to be President of the Church or then as 'it does now -no single acre in that territory ever having been sold. built a village there as early as 1848 In 1850 they called it a city. Brigham wants troops there to buy his stuff and pay him gold for it. If Connor is chasing Indians just now, Brighem is cunning enough to send a messenger out to Lervenworth to say that a trouble is brewing in that quarter. This is an old trick of his which has been repetted times once too many. Persons who claim to know, say that polygamy begroup there, thu it is unnatural and offensive to the women themselves, that it is not increasing in in any part of the territory, that they all understand that young David Smith, the son and successor of Joe, as Propeht, is opposed to its continuance longer, that his father never in thinted it, that it is not part of Mormoniem proper, and that intends to do, it will be extinguished entirely.
